(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 10—Fireworks from within and without the official body of 8,000 delegates started the fourth national biennial convention of Young Democrats on its way today.

A bitter fight for the presidency developed as three candidates formed a coalition to defeat Homer Matt Adams, 28-year-old Springfield, Ill., candidate. Echoing as committee meetings began was a charge that Adams was "buying off the election with moneybags" from the Illinois Senior Democratic committee.

Adams termed it "bunk". His pledged votes, he said, were the result of "precinct organization."

Lined up against Adams were J. Patrick Beacon, Huntingdon, W. Va., Harry Shank, Columbus, O., who levelled the charge of constitutional "vote buying" at Adams, and John Neff, Staunton, Va., all announced candidates for national president.

This development overshadowed a

Pa Newc wonders why some of the corn on the cob is not pulled before its whiskers turns gray. There is a right time and a wrong time to pull roasting ears. The right time is when there is plenty of milk in the corn. Nobody cares much to eat a roasting ear that has been milked. It's the juicy kind that we love to smear with butter and salt.

Jack Scaduto, of Edenburg, has a novelty in his garden in the way of white egg plant. He has about one hundred plants and the eggs are about the same size as the familiar purple. There are from one to two on a plant. They taste about the same as the purple ones. Mr. Scaduto got the plants from a grower near Hillsville. He does not know what the white egg plants are called, so when Mrs. Scaduto wants an egg for dinner, he has to go after it. Several of his neighbors have spoken for a setting of eggs.

Ask any angler if he ever heard of Isaak Walton and he will say "sure, he was a great fisherman." That's about all the most of them know about him. Yesterday was the birthday anniversary of Isaak Walton, and it may surprise most people to know that he was born away back on August 9, 1583, in Stafford, England. He came into prominence through writing a book, "The Compleat Angler," which became so popular that five editions, all enlarged, were published. He even told about fly-fishing which modern anglers think is something new. There is hardly a name in literature, even of the first rank, whose immortality is more secure than that of Isaak Walton. Although it is 356 years since he was born, fishermen today refer to him as though he were living.

Dollar Days Promise Crowds Of Shoppers

"Dollar Days"—two bargain days not one—will draw into New Castle on Friday and Saturday one of the largest volumes of shoppers ever to throng its stores and business streets, every sign indicated today.

Sponsored by the New Castle Retail Merchants' association (with 46 participating stores), the two-day sales event promises to provide district residents with one of the greatest of money-saving opportunities.

Every one of the 46 stores have so arranged their stocks that buyers will find quick answer to their fall merchandise needs.

Not for years has the city seen such a banner sales affair in August.

Extra Help Called

Extra clerks have been called for service tomorrow and Saturday, most stores said. Some of the auxiliary employes were being notified today. They'll get employment for the two-day period.

Confident of success of the sales, President William E. Langan of the merchants' organization, whose sales promotion committee worked up the "Dollar Days", said:

"Friday and Saturday should find the stores and streets full of shoppers. Warm weather won't keep crowds down, especially this time. All the stores have new merchandise to offer."

Last-minute touches were being applied to arrangements here and there.

Usually the dollar sale is limited to one day, but this week's celebration—altogether different than most that have been staged before—will embrace both Friday and Saturday.

Camp Fred L. Rentz Closes For Season

Camp Fred L. Rentz of the New Castle Y. M. C. A., one of the district's most popular summer retreats, formally closed its five-week 1939 season Wednesday in a blaze of glory. This summer 189 boys participated in the camp's program.

Former Assistant To Chief Highway Engineer Tells Of Orders

FOLLOWED ORDERS WITH CONTRACTORS

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Aug. 10—The commonwealth forged a new link today in its efforts to prove in the second campaign charges graft trial a conspiracy to give the James P. Kirk and John J. Manley insurance agencies a monopoly on highway contractors bonds in Western Pennsylvania.

Chief construction engineer of state highways Paul M. Tebbs, who during the Earle administration served as assistant to chief highway engineer H. H. Temple, testified he received instructions from Temple to advise low bidders to "see me before leaving town."

Tebbs' testimony was spread on the court record shortly after the trial of Temple, James P. Kirk, Pittsburgh insurance man and Allegheny county chairman, and Victor Skok, business associate of Kirk entered its fourth day.

Bond Monopoly

All three are on trial on charges of seeking to monopolize contractors' bonds on state highway construction in Western Pennsylvania during the Democratic administration for former Gov. George H. Earle.

In the early summer of 1936, he followed Temple's instructions to direct low bidders to communicate with the chief engineer, Tebbs told the jury.

In grand jury testimony read earlier, Temple, now a resident of Lexington, Ky., described how he used his influence as highways engineer to divert road contractors' bonding business to the Kirk firm in Pittsburgh and the Manley firm in Philadelphia.

Tebbs explained that his duties

'Stop McNutt' Movement Gets Started

Mayor LaGuardia Prefers J. Garner

White House Inner Circle Believes McNutt Candidacy Gaining Ground

"PALACE GUARD" SPONSORED McNUTT

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHISON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—The new deal's "Palace guard" was reported today to be considering a "Stop McNutt" movement to keep security Administrator Paul V. McNutt, of Indiana, from winning the Democratic nomination next year if President Roosevelt does not seek a third term.

Are Disturbed

The "Guardsman" are said to be disturbed by a blunt warning from Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia against "cuddling" McNutt into the nomination while using him as a bellwether for a third term. LaGuardia was said to have told the guardsmen he would much prefer to support Vice President John Nance Garner for the nomination than to take McNutt.

The "guardsmen" are also worried by private indications that McNutt is gaining steadily in the race for 1940 delegates. They sponsored McNutt for the bellwether post three weeks ago because of his pledge to step aside if Mr. Roosevelt ran and in the belief the president would become a third term candidate.

Now the "guardsmen" are in a quandary. They fear that if the president does not run, McNutt will have gained the inside track to the nomination before the primaries start next year. They face the choice of joining Postmaster General James A. Farley, whom they despise in a drive to stop McNutt, or standing by and taking their chances on Mr. Roosevelt seeking renomination. A third term alternative would be to support a liberal Democrat against McNutt and all other conservative Democrats but their previous efforts along this line have ended in a succession of disasters.

jurisdictional squabble within the California delegation. Here a "rump" group, the Young Democratic Clubs of California, Inc., sent full delegation to the convention despite the lack of national committee sanction. Its leaders sought recognition in a new appeal today.

Meanwhile, outside the official circle former Congressman John J. O'Connor of New York charged that a trio of New Dealers was attempting to take over the convention—"a setup, he said pre-arranged in Washington by Corcoran, Cohen and Ishansky."

Behind it all, he declared, was the work of Thomas Corcoran and Benjamin Cohen, both advisers to the Roosevelt administration, and Ishansky, whom O'Connor could not identify.

"A lot of people," he charged, "want to know who he is."

U. S. Senators Joseph F. Guffey of Pennsylvania and Claude Pepper of Florida, O'Connor asserted, are to be the New Deal spokesmen before the Young Democrats. Both are scheduled speakers.

"He's running true to form," the New Deal purge victim of last year said of Guffey's third-term advocacy. "He's as good a Democrat as Penrose, Mellon and Vare ever were, because he always did business with them. If anybody wants to know about Guffey, they can find out what his uncle said about the nephew."

O'Connor said he didn't think he'd be invited to address the convention.

"If I do," he observed, "I'll advise them to turn away from the New Deal. Since John L. Lewis is pushed out of the picture as the most powerful man in America, Ishansky is running the country."

News Briefs From City Hall

George S. Kennedy, acting chief of police today said he had received complaints of Seventh ward residents disposing of ashes in alleys which, Kennedy claims, is prohibited by law. Nails in the ashes punctured auto tires, Kennedy reported he was informed.

Charles Boughter, East Main street, told police at 5:40 p.m. Wednesday Joseph Bishara, South Jefferson street and George Joseph, Howard Way, riding a bicycle, was struck by his auto in an alley between Long avenue and Reiber street. Bishara sustained a laceration of the head, the report said.

When council met Thursday the body received from the Men's Garden club a letter which voiced opposition against the proposal to place seats on Croton avenue grass plots along the Neshannock creek. The letter said this would detract from its present appearance.

LURES TWO GIRLS TO LONELY CABIN, ONE FOUND DEAD

surrounding towns, answering a general alarm, arrested Jefferson as he walked northward along federal highway No. 1, about two miles north of Boca Raton.

Police quoted the Bolton girl as saying that after being lured away from their home Monday on promise of stage jobs and a movie test, they were taken to a deserted cabin on the waterfront about two miles south of Boca Raton.

There, she said, their hands were tightly tied behind them. They were kept bound constantly.

Early Tuesday, she said, Jefferson who had posed as a talent scout for a west coast movie studio, took the Dunn girl from the cabin, telling Miss Bolton that he was going to place her on a boat on the East Coast Canal.

He returned alone about an hour later, she said, telling her that Miss Dunn "is now on a boat." It was the last word Miss Bolton had of her chum until informed today that her body had been found on the beach.

Shot Three Times

Miss Dunn had been shot three times and stabbed twice. Police reports were that she had been criminally assaulted.

Miss Bolton was permitted to call members of her family in Miami and Atlanta, but she was suffering so from shock she could only say "Hello."

Miss Bolton was freed shortly after midnight, she told officers. When turned loose, she was quoted by police as saying, Jefferson told her she could go to Boca Raton and call her family, but warned her not to notify police as he would be following her.

When she arrived at the fire station, she was under the impression that she was being followed, and at first refused to give any information for fear she would be killed, officers said. Firemen immediately notified police.

Denies Killing

Denying that he had killed the Dunn girl Jefferson blamed an unnamed accomplice for the crime. He told police that he was supposed to meet his "accomplice" today and would lead them to him.

He also promised to lead police to the spot where his "accomplice" had hidden the gun with which the Dunn girl had been killed.

The girls had left their Miami homes early Monday after saying they were going to West Palm Beach for a screen test. When they failed to return home by late afternoon, their families notified police and both state and federal officers immediately launched a widespread search for them.

Miami, Fla., Aug. 10.—Pretty Jean Bolton, 17-year-old blond night club and radio singer who was released by her kidnaper near Boca Raton shortly after midnight, returned to the home of her parents in Miami today.

She was extremely nervous and was immediately given a hypodermic and put to bed. No one was permitted to talk to her.

D. 3, New Castle, became the bride of Howard E. Zeigler, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. N. Zeigler, R. D. 1, on Wednesday at 6:30 o'clock.

Her veil, worn en-train, fell from a halo gathering of soft white veiling, and she carried a colonial bouquet of gardenias and pompom asters, showered with white achilles. Her only jewelry was her grandmother's necklace.

There was a matching band in her hair and she carried a colonial bouquet of white roses and pompom asters showered with gypsophila. The bridal party entered to strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March. Mendelssohn's Wedding March was played as the recessional.

Following, there was a congratulatory period, after which a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Zeigler left later in the evening for a week's wedding trip. For travelling, the bride chose a black and white ensemble with a shoulder corsage of pink roses. Upon their return they will be at home to their friends in their newly furnished apartment at 911 Adams street.

FOOTLESS FIGHTING

THE present rash of injunction suits that have broken out over the state, to prevent votes being taken on whether or not liquor and beer can be sold in various communities seems to us to be a case of "footless fighting". Whether or not the injunction suits are successful is beside the point, those people who are interested in seeing licensed places installed are only stirring up more trouble for themselves in the future by such actions.

By one of those legislative quirks, the General Assembly said, by act, that wet and dry elections must be held 60 days before the elections. This means the primary, and this year the primary falls 57 days before the election. It is upon this technicality that the wet interests base their injunctions.

What the courts will say in the matter is not within our province to surmise. What the courts say is not important at the moment, what we are thinking of is the effect of such suits upon the minds of the voters.

Certainly no one would deny the people the right to say whether they want licenses in their political subdivisions, and the only way they can say it is at the ballot box. Restrict or hamper that right and you have an aroused populace that will right back.

If the liquor interests insist upon taking advantage of legal technicalities, if they insist upon attempting to deny the people a right which the General Assembly apparently wanted them to have, then they are turning public opinion against themselves, which eventually will bring them into serious straits.

From the standpoint of the average citizen who has no fixed opinion either way it seems like poor sportsmanship. From the standpoint of the liquor interests it is useless antagonism, conceived in stupidity and executed in boldness.

LET THEM PAY

Extension of the parole system is urged by certain penological experts as the most promising means of reforming convicted criminals. The contention is that self-improvement is seldom to be achieved within prison walls.

Unfortunately for those who entertain this idea, however, any increase in the number of paroles would entail so large an advance in the costs of parole administration that the scheme becomes quite impracticable from the fiscal point of view.

Then, too, there is the punitive side of the question. Should a convict be released from confinement merely because, in the opinion of some psychiatrist, he holds forth the possibility of effective reform? Should he not be made to pay for his offenses against society?

With all the chances for vocational training and experience afforded by the modern prison system, it would seem that the convict who has any real stuff in him should have ample opportunity for self-betterment during service of the term imposed upon him.

As for the hardened criminal and chronic offender, society will be far better off if such individuals are forced to complete their sentences without any leniency on the part of parole boards and pardon courts imbued with a weak-minded conception of the relationship between the prisoner and the world of lawful conduct.

BUSTLE

Well, well! Bustles are coming in again. Nothing surprises us about women's clothes, after this reason's hats.

But at Mainbocher's opening in Paris a gasp ran around the circle of assembled spectators. The models wore corsets. Their waists were wasp-like, bosoms high, the hips rounded.

The result, Mainbocher announced, was a "stem torso." The scene was reported as resembling a group of ladies at Queen Alexandra's court.

American shops are right on the job. An advertisement reads: "Subtle Bustle—we think you'll he happier with these modified versions, which suggest rather than exaggerate." For debutantes bustles are available in hues of Kelly green, for the dowager of ampler pygal equipment there is Pacific blue. Even wool coats will go in for aftward astrakhan.

Altogether, it looks like an interesting winter.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1939 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

They said that military aviation would kill the demand for wartime copper because air-bombs don't have copper casings. But old King Copper, like old King Cotton, is always coming back. The French government bought 50,000 tons of copper the other day, presumably for war stocks, starting a buying wave all over the world.

That's almost a year's output of the great Cerro de Pasco—the great mine of Peru. The huge purchase by France was at ten cents a pound, up from the depression low of five cents, and down from the 25 cents of war days, when the Allies bought 448,000,000 pounds from this country in a single order.

Copper, alloyed with tin to make bronze, or unalloyed, has been indispensable in war since the days of the early Greeks. Chronicles of the Caesar Augustus tell of the wars for Rio Tinto copper in Spain, and 2,000 years later England dickers with France trying to save her holdings in these very mines, which a group of British capitalists acquired from the Danes in 1880.

Empires, old and new, are more or less copper-riveted, if they stay on the job for any considerable time. Canny old Britain knew all that when she took over South Africa and developed its vast copper deposits.

It is a toss-up whether the Rio Tinto or the Cerro de Pasco mines are the oldest. The latter were certainly worked by the Aztecs until the Spanish took over.

Exports to the United States began in 1898, but it was not until 1906 that the Morgan-Mills interests acquired the mining company and developed a steadily productive empire, nearly 15,000 feet above sea level, 221 miles northeast of Lima, Peru, reached by a narrow-gauge, switchback railroad which makes the passenger think he's been on a Coney Island sky-ride.

Indian workers are docile, but the llamas stage sit-down strikes—they are the originators of this supposedly new industrial technique, and no doubt practiced it in the days of the Aztecs. The llama, a relative of the camel with a little dash of goat in his general make-up, packs the ore down to the smelters at a lower level.

While, so far as diligent research reveals, there have been no C. I. O. organizers down there, they have a highly effective and hard-boiled four-footed union.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

PARENTS OFTEN RUDE TO CHILDREN

Some children are rude to their parents. More parents are rude to their children. We parents assume that we have the right to rudeness and that our children haven't. So we talk back to our children, interrupt them, contradict them; but when they venture to do so to us we condemn them for discourtesy.

When a child of three, or even of twelve, contradicts us he rarely means to be rude. He merely wishes to be accurate. His observations may have been incorrect, his judgment wrong and his imagination unrestrained; but for facts as he sees them he has a very high regard.

Wants To Be Correct

When, for instance, you read an oft-repeated story to the child of three or five, you must not miscall a single word, else he will correct you. So also when you relate an incident observed by both you and the younger or older child, he expects you to report it as he remembers it. If you vary in respect to time, place or quantity, he corrects the error as he sees it, with no thought of being rude. More often than not, his correction is a true one.

Instead of chastizing him right before our friends, let us wait until we are alone with him and then explain how his contradiction is interpreted by our adult friends. Suppose we say: "Next time you hear me stating something not quite accurate, you give me a wink. Then I'll turn to you and say, 'Was it Wednesday or Thursday?' for example; and you will reply, 'Thursday.' 'Oh, yes, Thursday," I will answer, 'Thank you for helping me.' You, therefore, will be happy, I'll be happy, and my friend will know that all is well."

Our next step is to examine ourselves, to see that we no longer contradict the child, and that when we do so, we follow it by an apology.

Allowed No Argument

It is usually a very childish thing for parents to contradict each other. But there are extreme instances when one parents feels compelled to take issue with another. The widow of Joseph Conrad cites one concerning her late distinguished husband: "Joseph had one very marked characteristic; he would allow no argument in his own family circle. In early days I often transgressed by attempting to correct his dates. I have heard him repeatedly give the date of our marriage two years later than it was.

"At first I interrupted him eagerly, pointing out that our boy was born that year. He would turn quickly toward me, frowning his displeasure: 'You will allow me, my dear, to know as much about it as you do. After all, he is my son as well as yours—besides, I never consider you as old as that.'"

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

AND YET—

Addressing members of the American Association for the Advancement of Science at Stanford university, Dr. S. J. Holmes, zoologist, anthropologist, educator and author, expounded some arresting theories on conventional morality. His view is that most of the traits commonly condemned—selfishness, cruelty, deceit, cowardice—are part of man's biological inheritance from ages when primitive man lived wholly by the law of the jungle; and that the emotions of kindly sentiment, self-sacrifice and friendship are purely developments of human ethics and are not basically innate in nature, human or animal.

About the time Dr. Holmes was saying all that, a feature story "broke" in Los Angeles. A family there owns a huge 17-pound tomcat, named Sammy, and a tiny Pekingese dog, named Toy. Until recently, catlike and doglike, they were enemies. Then Toy slowly went blind. He stumbled about. In his dimming world he found an unexpected friend. Big Sammy took over as a voluntary "seeing-eye" cat. Now he steers Toy around; he protects him from other dogs; he waits until Toy has finished before he eats—from the same dish.

Why did that big tomcat do that? Why did he soften toward that little dog when Toy became helpless? Perhaps, as Dr. Holmes maintains, true chivalry and charity aren't innate in nature, and are only a development of human ethics. Certainly, we couldn't argue with an erudite scientist.

And yet—there's that cat!

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 7:05; sun rises tomorrow 5:05.

We never could see why the relations of one who gets in wrong should suffer from his actions. Some mighty fine people have relations that do not do them any good. Remember that—Judge Not!

Luke MacGinty says he has learned to his sorrow that the striking girl he married turned out to be a striking wife.

A local bachelor says "It is a wise young lady who buys a wedding gown that can be made over for ten years."

If he begins growing a mustache after one year of marriage, she has probably gone back to eating onions.

Our advice to angels is not to eat some of the cake named after them. Live ones who eat very much of it become angels sooner or later.

TODAY'S STORYETTE

A newly-wed decided he would like to take his bride up in an airplane, so, after having the necessary lessons, he took her up. Suddenly, the young bride said: "What is the matter, dear?"

"Something has gone wrong with the controls. I shall have to land some place soon," he replied.

"But we shall crash, shan't we?" she said.

"Of course we shall crash," he replied, "but don't worry. It is quite all right, I am told there is a rubber plantation just below."

The gentleman who lost $400 announced to friends he would give $50 reward to the finder. Whereupon another spoke up to say he'd give $75.

LIFE'S LITTLE AGONIES

A grandfather visited a household in which he had a little grandson, who had spent part of the summer at a boys' camp. The lad talked so enthusiastically about the camp that his grandfather offered a slight reminder.

"After all though," he remarked, "you were glad to get home, weren't you?"

"Well," replied the boy, thoughtfully, "not especially." Then after a bit he added: "Some of the fellows were—those that had dogs."

President Roosevelt is getting ready to get into his long special train to travel about twenty thousand miles and on the way he will tell the people what a lot of monkeys there are in congress. The last congress sure did some fine things for our country.

Under the new Hatch law a lot of people will have to either quit their government jobs or stay out of politics. Wonder how some will hold their jobs if they stay out of politics?

At Connellsville, Pa., there is an old furnace, one of the first built there. It is to be turned into sort of a monument in memory of the iron business. Out at Rose Point there are the remains of an old furnace, the last of a furnace in this county, that could be made into a nice memorial to the iron business in this county. All that would have to be done is to keep it from being torn down.

The egotist is proud of himself instead of his deed.

WIDE OPEN

The sportsman in the horse racing town occasionally attended church and one day went to a sermon preached by a visiting minister. The minister denounced horse racing and later was informed that the sportsman, a large contributor to the church, had been in attendance. Wishing to make amends, the preacher sought out the horseman.

"I am afraid I touched on one of your weaknesses today," he began.

"Think nothing of it," said the sportsman genially. "It's mighty hard to get a sermon that wouldn't touch me somewhere."

A woman driver ran into another vehicle and bent a mud-guard. It worried her. So she went to a garage and asked the mechanic: "Can you repair this mud-guard so that my husband won't know it has been bent?" The mechanic looked at the bent mud-guard and then at the woman and replied: "No, madam, I can't. But I can fix it up so that in a few days you can ask your husband how he bent it."

When culture becomes a compulsory item of every public and private school curriculum, fewer young feminine hearts will break during competition with better-privileged girls. And appreciation of music will be on the "must" list of all culture courses. If you doubt this, note hereafter, while attending the movies, that there are two distinct classes of music, each attracting applause from a different type of girl. Compare these girls and tell yourself which class will more readily attract worthwhile men and gain entree among really worthwhile people.

Readers' Questions Answered

Dear Miss Markel: When the bride receives her friends in the rear of the church, who receives with her?—Bride.

Answer: Unless she will have no reception when she might receive the good wishes of her friends, the bride should not linger at the rear of the church. Of course, if she will leave for her honeymoon immediately after the ceremony, she will naturally wait to greet her friends. However, there is no receiving line, merely the bride and groom surrounded by family and friends.

Tomorrow—The Male Monopolizer

CHEERFUL YET

He was known as the most optimistic man in town. But when one misfortune followed another, when he lost his job and his friends, it was expected he would lose his smile.

But not that man. When a reporter called on him for a story he said he was still cheerful and still had something to be thankful for.

"Even if it is only for a back to have my rheumatism in," he concluded.

An old-fashioned session in the woodshed and sit-down strikes are out.

There is no wrath like that of the political job hunter if he don't get the job when he wants it. He starts right there to not only make it worse for himself, but also for those who would help him if they could.

BUDDING BUFFALO BILL

A hard-driving taxi-driver ignored a red signal, threatened the traffic policeman's knees, missed the street island by a hair, and lightly grazed a bus, all in one dash.

The policeman hailed him, and then strolled over to the taxi, pulling a big handkerchief from his pocket en route.

"Listen, cowboy!" he growled. "On yer way back I'll drop this and see if you can pick it up with yer teeth."

Widows now own a large part of America's wealth, and men must eat, and what will a poor girl do then, poor thing?

"Punch" is a quaint old thing. The ads are like America's in 1906, and the jokes like America's in 1870.

People are kind to a rich and lonely old person. They read about others who inherited fortunes that way.

We all face death, in peace as in war. And all you can do, in either case, is to keep busy enough to forget about it.

PETE'S POLITENESS

"Did you get home last night all right?" asked the conductor as Pete entered the street car.

"Yes," said Pete in surprise. "But why do you ask?"

"You were on this car last night," said the conductor. "And you arose to give a woman your seat."

"Wasn't that polite and courteous?" demanded Pete. "What was wrong with that?"

"Nothing at all," said the conductor. "Except you and she were the only passengers on the car."

What's What At A Glance

Hanes' Optimism Proves Untimely.
Business Predictions Contradict.
Roosevelt Declares The Opposite.

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

Washington, August 10.

ACTING TREASURY SECRETARY JOHN W. HANES in asserting that business is on the eve of a real forward movement, evidently didn't realize the full import of what he was predicting.

It sounded like a reasonable prophecy, to be sure. In fact, when Hanes broadcast it a few days ago, the market already was showing an upward tendency. He seems to be a first-class economist, but apparently he isn't so crafty a politician or maybe he isn't a thorough newspaper reader. If he'd followed the papers closely, surely he'd have noticed that, about a week ahead of his utterances, President Roosevelt had accused congress of killing an incipient boom by shelving the neutrality legislation he was boosting for.

So we have the president serving notice that a boom, in the making, was "busted" by the lawmakers, and his acting treasury secretary, right on the heels of it, issuing a highly optimistic forecast.

But the conflict between these two statements connotes more than a mere difference of opinion.

New Deal's History

The Roosevelt administration began with a New Deal program.

Congress was very rubber stampish. Whatever the White House recommended the legislators acquiesced in. There was a little business bulge, but an inadequate one. Then followed the recession. It's continued until very lately, since when it's "pepped up" a bit.

Now it's been de-pepperred again, according to F. D., by congress' recalcitrancy.

Not so, rejoins Secretary Hanes—at this juncture we're about to prosper more than ever. And he cites statistics to prove it—quite convincing ones.

O. K. Hanes' manifest purpose is to demonstrate that the New Deal is beginning to "take" belatedly.

But doesn't he see that there's an alternative interpretation to be placed on the situation?

Congress has turned anti-New Deal—and business improves immediately. F. D. doesn't say so, no. However, his acting secretary of the treasury does say so. Had a Republican or a Democratic anti-New Dealer said it, it wouldn't have counted. But Hanes is a snorting New Dealer—and possibly he knows what he's talking about, for he IS a star economist.

As an economist, I'd guess that he'd see now that he mis-expressed himself as a politician. He did it at a casual press conference. He wasn't thinking.

In 1940

In 1940 the question is sure to be asked:

Have the prosperity goods been delivered?

If not the New Deal will be blamed for their non-delivery.

If they HAVE been delivered, will the New Deal get the credit for delivering them?

If, before congress revolted, the goods HAD been delivered—sure, the New Deal WOULD get the credit.

But if the goods are delivered AFTER congress has turned thumbs down on the New Deal White House?—won't it look as if such a turn-down was what business was waiting for?

Quite awhile earlier a big business pick-up would have made the New Deal solid on into near-infinity. If it comes soon, it'll give the impression that it's a pick-up DELAYED by New Deal policies.

If Secretary Morgenthau had remained at home, instead of going to Europe, on a vacation, it might have been expressed better.

A MOTHER BIRD TALKS TO HER SON

A nestling kingbird watchful said:
'Look at that great bird overhead!
See how it tumbles from the sky!
Shall I do that when I've learned to fly?"
And the mother answered: "Though you can,
I'd leave such foolishness to man."

"Shall I come down with a powerful swoop?
Shall I barrel-roll and loop the loop?
Shall I do tricks like that silver thing
When I'm older grown and strong of wing?"
And the kingbird mother said "No, my son!
'Tis only by man such things are done.

"You are a kingbird, born to fly.
You'll be at home in the summer sky,
But you'll stay down when the north winds blow
And you'll come in when it starts to snow.
And you will fly to your maker's plan,
For you are bird, not a foolish man!"

The Great Game Of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT
Copyright, 1939, by The Baltimore Sun

The Taft Candidacy

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.

TWO things in national politics, reasonably clear for a long time, have been made more so by the rerent session of Congress. One is that the Republican Presidential nomination is worth more next year than since 1928; the other, that the Republican choice is limited to three men—Mr. Dewey, of New York; Senator Vandenberg, of Michigan, and Senator Taft, of Ohio.

—o—

THIS IS because tey are the only available party men with national reputations. Barring some extraordinary development, no new national figure can be built up in nine months and "dark horses" who become nominees are so rare as to be negligible. This being the case, the personalities, of the Messrs. Dewey, Vandenberg and Taft naturally are of great public interest.

—o—

AT THE MOMENT, attention is centered more on Mr. Taft than on the other two—first, because his embarrassing Ohio situation has been smoothed out; second, because of the announcement of his candidacy. Now, it is true that various polls, except in Ohio, show Mr. Taft slightly behind Mr. Dewey and Mr. Vandenberg in popularity. But, curiously, instead of discouraging his friends, that very fact encourages them.

—o—

IT IS their contention that when the odds are against him Mr. Taft is most formidable and that at this stage they would rather have him slightly behind than in the lead. That sounds a little like an alibi, but when you examine Mr. Taft's political record it does not seem so. For example, in 1938, when he was a candidate for the Senatorial nomination, few posted observers thought he had a chance. Early in June both newspaper and political experts agreed he could not win.

—o—

ACTUALLY, in private, his campaign managers and members of his own family conceded defeat. "Bob," they said, in effect, "is a fine, sincere man and would make a grand Senator, but he is not a good campaigner. The other fellow is running away with him. It is too bad, but he is in or a licking." They even conveyed this cheerful point of view to Mr. Taft himself. Did it dishearten him? Did it slow him down? It did not. On the contrary, that kind of talk in his own camp stiffened him as nothing else had and he went at it harder than before.

—o—

IN July the people who in June had said he could not win were saying "Bob has made progress. He has gained strength every day and he may pull through." Well, in the August primary Mr Taft won by the emphatic majority of 70,000 and then had to start in on his general campaign with practically the same situation that existed at the start of the primary fight. In September, his loyal friends talked this way—"Yes, Bob surprised them in the primaries. He got off to a bad start and his nomination was a triumph. But he is up against it now. It isn't only that Senator Bulkley is personally indorsed by the President and has the WPA and the whole Administration setup behind him, but the primaries left a lot of bitterness. Day won't support him. He can't win."

—o—

MR. TALF was told all that, too, and it had the same stimulating effect similar news had in the primaries. When Mr. Day, his primary opponent, plumped for Senator Bulkley, Mr. Taft just put on more steam and was elected by 170,000 majority. Take another in-

What Noted People Say

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Assistant Secretary of State Henry F. Grady sees little hope for increased trade with dictatorships:

"Fundamentally, the totalitarian economic philosophy is founded on aggression; ours is founded on peace."

NEW YORK—National Legion Commander Stephen F. Chadwick Stifles a move for general service pensions:

"To preserve the fine things which we have and which we are asking, we must carefully consider anything which looks like a new request on the government."

LONDON — Winston Churchill ventures a prediction:

"If Herr Hitler does not make war, there will be no war."

WASHINGTON—Sen. Walter F. George opposes the third term idea:

"The course followed by the great and patriotic leaders of the past against a third term is wise and right."

CONTAGIOUS NATURE OF SCABIES MAKES TREATMENT DIFFICULT

One of the biggest problems I have faced as a doctor here in Northern Ontario is the control of the skin disease known as scabies. Time and again I have seen it go through a whole school. Here, too, we have large families—to find fifteen or sixteen children isn't uncommon—and the disease is so infectious that it is hard to get it cleared up.

The disease itself is a very irritating one. It is caused by tiny parasites which burrow their way into the victim's skin. The female of this parasite burrows into the skin, eating the tissue as she goes and leaving behind her the track of the burrow lined with eggs.

This burrowing occurs most easily in parts of the skin which lie in folds. Scabbies is easily recognized by these tracks, and with a sharp needly the parasite can be removed from his burrow.

There are other forms of the rash; sometimes we find small, white, raised areas containing clear fluid; sometimes the yare red areas on the skin. None of these can exist without the typical burrows, and they can always be seen if the search is made carefully enough.

Scabies is always picked up from some one else suffering from the disease. Usually when we find a child with the disease, the story comes out that someone else in the family has had a skin rash. Sometimes the true nature of the rash is lost because of the extensive scars caused by scratching.

In trtating scabies we try to clear up the rash in the patient, and at the same time prevent its spread to others. The only local treatment necessary is complete cleanliness and the application of an ointment containing sulphur. For the poor people in the outlying districts, I prescribe a mixture of sulphur and lard for not only is it effective, but it can be prepared cheaply.

The child should be given a bath just as soon as the disease is discovered. After that he should be placed in bed and the ointment applied liberally over the entire body, beginning at the head and working down to the feet. The clothes that the child wore should be well boiled—better still, burn them, if it isn't too much of a hardship.

The child is kept in bed for at least three days, receiving a bath each night, followed by a liberal application of the ointment. If at the end of three days there are no further signs of lesions, then the child is cured and won't have any more trouble. But if there are still traces of burrows in the skin, then he should receive another three-day treatment.

During all this time the child should have no visitors, and his dishes and bed clothing should be kept separately and should be boiled carefully.

stance. Last April Senator Taft made a very poor speech at a Gridiron dinner. Except the President, speakers on those occasions are limited to ten minutes, in which they are expected to be profound, constructive and witty. Mr. Taft was none of those things and the general feeling—even among his friends—was that that flop had put him out of the picture.

—o—

BUT IT didn't. Instead, he put more vigor into his thirteen weeks' radio debate with the brilliant New Deal champion. Representative Smith, of Illinois, and a Gallup poll taken later showed eighty-two per cent. of the radio audience favoring Mr. Taft and eighteen per cent. favoring his opponent. The truth is that Mr. Taft is a solid, sensible but not a showy fellow. He did not sparkle at the Gridiron Club, but at least he wrote his own speech, which was more than could be said of the only other delivered that night before the same audience.

—o—

THERE is nothing dramatic about Mr. Taft. He cannot "put on an act" and he is incapable of political simulation. But underneath that bespectaled, benevolent appearance there is real ability and an unshakable determination that makes him fight hardest when things look worst. In brief, he has both heart and brains, plus a homely way of stating his views which carries conviction. An effort has been made to label him as the most conservative of the Republican availables. The New Deal namecallers refer to him as a Tory and a reactionary, but the same names are applied by the same people to Senator Byrd, of Virginia, because he opposes waste and believes in the multiplication table. Actually, Mr. Taft is as humanitarian and progressive as any man in the Senate, but he tempers his humanitarianism with a sense of proportion and an instinct for the national safety.

—o—

IT IS interesting that he does not object to being called a conservative, does not itch to be known as a "liberal," which word the New Deal inner circle recently banned as having been cheapened by the crackpots and Communists. In view of that, perhaps other aspirants will cease straining to be thus known. At any rate, Mr. Taft has a sense of humor about these tags. He could not be the son of his father without a sense of humor. Nor could he be anything but a first-rate man and have his kind of wife. Win, lose or draw she is an indispensable asset of incalcuable value. It is not safe to discount Mr. Taft because he now runs third in the Gallup poll and flopped at a Gridiron dinner. No one will who recalls his two Ohio campaigns.

The Human Side Of The News

By EDWIN C. HILL

Any llama will stand for a load just 100 kilos, or about 200 pounds. If they soak him a single kilo more, he sits down. If further resistance is necessary, he flaps his loose rubber lips and spits in the face of his driver. He is a crack marksman and his saliva is peculiarly odorous and unpleasant. Nobody ever shoves him around more than once.

Under his union rules, the llama is patient and diligent. He is as tough as a mule and nimble as a goat on the narrow mountain trails and he can go five days without water. Give him a handful of maize and you get a good day's mileage. All of which sustains certain steady dividend-clipping in New York and Boston.

Efforts to dominate world copper production continue in off-stage scheming and dickering among the nations, as they have for centuries past, with the betting at present on England, France and America. The axis powers are still short-enders, and here is being fought a crucial economic battle, as critical, perhaps, as any big land or naval engagement in the past.

The Anaconda interests of this country own Chile Copper, the largest copper producer in the world. The Kennecott Corporation, also American owned, and controlled by the Morgan-Guggenheim interests, is another great producer of Chile.

Much of the busy intrigue of Germany, Italy and Japan in Chile is said to be concentrated on efforts to divert Chilean copper war stocks to the axis countries.

As usual, Germany turns to "Ersatz", and stories are whispered of their achievement of a new synthetic copper, cheaper and better than the natural element. So far as I can learn, no responsible metallurgist would risk a dime on these tales.

The U. S. A. isn't complaining. With Anaconda, Kennecott, Phelps Dodge, along with vast undeveloped deposits in Montana and Utah, we can carry on—war or no war.

Much of the world agitation about elbow room to live and places in the sun could be accurately translated in terms of copper and oil. If Machiavelli was right, and he frequently was, democratic control of such necessary fixings for the sovereign state will, in the long run, blank the aggressors.

trouble with that place is," said the other, "you ain't nowhere when you get there." That might all depend upon the point of view. Some vacationists try to convince themselves that they are having a good time if there are a flock of hot-dog stands and a merry-go-round at a resort. Others would rather go to some quiet spot, where the waves kiss the sands, and a hoot owl sounds the curfew. What is nowhere to some is somewhere to others.

A West Side woman thinks there ought to be a law against hornets building their nests under the eaves of garage roofs. The other day when she went out to attach a clothesline to a hook on the garage a hornet swooped down and stung her on the chin, about one-half inch below the kisser. It swelled up so badly that her husband got all the roasting ears at dinner.

It is becoming quite common to advertise places for sale in the country as being so many minutes from New Castle in place of so many miles. For instance, there was an advertisement in the classified columns of The News last week advertising a farm at Plaingrove as twenty minutes from New Castle. The automobile surely has annihilated distance. It used to be a man would brag about his horse if he was able to drive it from Plaingrove to New Castle in two hours.

Ant hills prove a nuisance on many lawns about town and many and varied are the attempts to get rid of them. Some imagine that they can drown the ants and so turn the garden hose on them, but the ants just thumb their noses, and keep on about their business of digging up the lawn. There are various nostrums on the market, but it is said that one of the best ways to get rid of them is to attach a hose to the exhaust pipe of a car and bury the other end in the ant hill. Start the car and the carbon monoxide does the rest.

Highway construction circles are taking an interest in the use of crushed stone sand in concrete work in place of river or bank sand which has heretofore been used. This crushed stone sand has been used on a portion of the New Castle-Butler highway, known as Route 422, and has proven very satisfactory. This is the second project in the state on which the new sand has been used. It is made by crushing and grinding large sandstones.

It is said that one nice thing about the firemen's convention in Ellwood City is that the fire laddies are spending their money pretty freely, and tradesmen wear a smile when they open their cash registers at night. It's a well established fact that conventions are a great help to a city, and the longer they stay the better. Ellwood's big time is lasting all week.

Recently Owen Fox, city forester, was in the vicinity of the cement plant, where there is a large quantity of bullrushes in a swamp. He noticed quite a number of starlings going through some unusual manuevers. They would dart into the rushes, and then rapidly rise, time and again. Upon investigation, he found that the reason for this was, the birds by doing so, disturbed myriads of mosquitos and other insect pests injurious to human beings. The purpose was to get these insects to swarm into the air, whereupon the birds fed upon them. It is the belief of many folks that the starling is in the quota of non-valuable birds, but any person will find, if they take the time to study this bird that they are doing their bit in ridding our community of many obnoxious insects.

Mrs. Minnie Sullivan of 506 Young street, has some beautiful moon flowers or "evening glory" of a blue hue, blooming on the vines at her home. Recently she counted 250 blooms, many of them three and a half to four inches across.

Those who imagine that firemen are a wild bunch when they get away from home restraint, have been agreeably disappointed when they visited the Western Pennsylvania firemen's association now encamped at Ellwood City. Several local residents who have been down to Ellwood giving the boys the once over, say that they found a very orderly and dignified gathering. Some were even found reading their Bibles.

Local fishermen would do well to look over the state fish laws, and the various amendments made by the last legislature. These do not become effective until September 1, but it is well to know what they are. One of the amendments pertains to nets. After September 1 it will be unlawful for any fisherman to have in his possession a net larger than four feet square, unless by special permit. Another amendment provides for a fine of ten dollars each for fish found in the possession of any one contrary to the rules and regulations laid down by code.

Tiny wrist watches worn by women tick so silently that it is pretty hard, sometimes, to tell whether or not they are going. Pa Newc saw a woman in front of a jewelry store endeavoring to set her watch, and also to find out if it was alive. First she put it to one ear and then the other but did not seem to get results, owing to the noise in the street. Finally she stuffed it into one ear, which seemed to give satisfaction, but it was noticed that she had a hard time digging it out. Better to attach a string to watches when placed in the ear.

Trouble over the new local option law would seem to indicate that there ought to be a kindergarten for legislators. At least they should be taught to count up to sixty, then they would have been able to enumerate the days between the September 12 primary and the general election November 7, which those more skilled in mathematics have found to be only 57. This simple knowledge would have prevented an injunction suit in our local courts, and several others throughout the state.

Up in the Croton district the other night a woman had two hens stolen. Probably if the state police, the sheriff's office and the city police had been notified promptly the thief might have been caught. He was just as much a thief as a man who robs a gas station, or breaks into a store. It's not the amount stolen that marks the criminal, but the intent to take that which does not belong to him. Robbing chicken coops is one of the lowest forms of stealing, as it is generally practiced on persons who can ill afford the loss.

Former pupils of Martin Gantz school are holding their annual reunion today, but unfortunately not on the site of their alma mater, where once streams of knowledge trickled from beloved instructors, the gas man blandly asks if he "can fill 'er up." Not a trace of the old school house remains, but in the hearts and minds of those who attended Martin Gantz, there are pleasant memories. These are being revived today. Here's hoping former pupils may live to enjoy many more such meetings.

Pa Newc has observed that nightly, a small terrier dog sits placidly on the roof of a car, which is parked on East Washington street near County Line street. The rush and rumble of the ever present traffic does in no way bother the sophisticated poise of the canine pet.

County Health Officer Thomas C. West is receiving complaints against the practice of thoughtless persons who deposit refuse along the highways of Lawrence county. Farmers resent the pernicious habit some have of filling a truck or the family car with garbage and rubbish, then motoring out on the highway, and dumping it on some other person's land. It is an eyesore, attracts animals and insects, and is highly objectional in other ways. Much of this promiscuous dumping is done at night. There is a law against it and severe penalties can be inflicted.

It seems that we have too much of everything, and now it's milk. According to a dairy association, there is an over supply, just like there is of wheat, corn and cotton. It is estimated that if every person over five years old drank an extra glass of milk each day the farmers annual cash milk income would increase by more than five hundred million dollars. That's a pretty good sized roll, and the drinking of the extra milk would no doubt redound to the public health. It's mighty easy to figure out what might be, but it takes a wizard to figure out how to do it. Please pass the milk.

Unique in his method of travelling in this season when every person attempts to take a trip and visit some place away from home, was the mode of "getting there" used by a middle aged man, who pulled up to a down town gasoline station on Wednesday evening to purchase some gas for his bicycle, to which had been attached a small motor. When started, the motor pulled the bike at an enjoyable speed and the man pedaled on his way.

Yesterday's sultry and sticky weather conditions were swiftly changed during the early evening and the mercury dropped several degrees. The clear coolness of the atmosphere was similar to that of a fall night and sharply stood out as a reminder of the fast passing summer hours and the fact that the "Harvest Moon" days will soon arrive.

Two Speakers At Boy Scout Camp

Fine Program At Indian Village For Parents' Night Wednesday

(Special To The News)

CAMP JOHN M. PHILLIPS, August 10.—Parents' Night at the Boy Scout camp was fittingly observed Wednesday evening with the presentation of a fine program. Two well known speakers were on the program and they gave very appropriate talks.

The program was presented in the sylvan setting of the beautiful Indian village in the camp and Owen P. Fox, New Castle city forester, spoke in an interesting manner on the peculiarities of American Indians. He also demonstrated Indian calls and customs, and displayed various Indian items.

Frank L. Coen, Lawrence county game supervisor, was the other speaker. He had a treat for the scouts and parents in the form of a pet deer. Mr. Coen talked to the boys in an interesting way for about 15 minutes, telling of the habits and haunts of deer.

Plans have been completed at the camp for another big night tonight. This will be observed as Scouters' Day and a gala event is planned tonight. A dinner in the camp mess hall will be served at 6 o'clock, with a program following around a huge campfire in the Indian Village. This event is for the local scouters, their families and friends.

The girls spent the night in the old mill, where they found beds arranged around the huge grinding stones.

The event came to a close after breakfast the next morning, with 12 girls having taken part in the adventure.

VENDOL EASED CONSTIPATION THEN HIS PAINS DISAPPEARED

Penna. R. R. man thought everything in the world was wrong before taking Vendol. Relieved backache, pains in limbs and other troubles.

MR. JOHN A ROBISON

Many people right here at home think everything in the world is the matter with them when nine times out of ten all they need is to get the right medicine to relieve constipation, pep up the appetite, or act as a diuretic to the kidneys. That is what happened in the following case as told to the Vendol Man in Eckerd's Drug Store a few days ago.

It is from Mr. John A. Robison, residing on route 4, New Castle, a popular railroad man, who says: "I feel like a different person from the one that began taking Vendol a few weeks ago. I was full of aches and pains. My back was stiff and my muscles sore. Every time I stooped over it seemed that everything was spinning around. My nerves kept me awake for hours and what sleep I got was light. My food upset my stomach, making it grumble from the gas, and I'd belch up a hot, sour liquid.

"I didn't realize it then, but now I know that constipation was causing all of it. Vendol gave the grandest relief from constipation I ever had and now I'm like a different person. Never have an ache or pain, my sleep is restful, awake every morning without a headache or that dull, dizzy feeling, and I enjoy every meal without having gas or bloating later. I just think Vendol is a wonderful medicine and advise everyone suffering like I did to get some without waiting a day."

Vendol is sold by all well stocked druggists and is highly recommended here by Eckerd's of New Castle, 118 E. Washington St.

Do You Remember?

Compiled And Presented For Publication In The News By Fred B. Sankey, President Of Old Timer's Day Association

Old Timers Day Cascade Park, Wednesday, August 16, 1939.

Universal Sanitary Manufacturing Co. was organized in 1901 with the following officers: Chas. J. Kirk, president; John W. Knox, treasurer; Thomas F. Morehead, secretary. Mr. Kink was elected president because he was the president of the Chamber of Commerce, the organization that raised the money to bring the industry here. The Universal was the first sanitary pottery company outside of New Jersey, and Mr. Kirk the first man to install and improve upon the continuous tunnel kiln for sanitary ware in 1915 in this country. Mr. Kirk was the father of Mrs. Thomas Liggett, Mrs. William Keith McAfee and Herbert S. Kirk.

William Keith McAfee, who took over the management later, has made it one of the outstanding plants for the manufacture of sanitary ware in America, and he is one of the most active members of the American Ceramic Society of the United States.

William T. Butz was one of the original members of the executive committee who launched the Old Timers' Association in 1907. He acted as treasurer through the years and was the only surviving member of the committee left to manage the annual gathering in recent years, which he did, heart and soul, up to the time of his death last year. Mr. Butz was the father of Fred Paul Butz and Mrs. John W. Norris.

The Green private bank located on South Jefferson street, was organized in 1907. Later this bank moved to its present quarters on Washington street in 1919, and the name changed to the Peoples Bank. Officers were Adolph Green, president; Joseph Hannon and John W. Hutton, vice presidents; Charles C. Duff, secretary and treasurer; John D. Kennedy, assistant secretary.

The Blair Strip Steel Co. was incorporated in 1923. Original directors: George D. Blair, Geo. D. Blair, Jr., Hon. J. Norman Martin, Hon. George T. Weingartner and Thurman C. Post. Charter being granted for the manufacture of hot and cold rolled strip steel. The capacity of original plant was about 300 tons per month, but with additions and improvements made since the capacity has been increased to 2,500 tons per month. The product is principally used in the automotive field directly or indirectly, and the employes have reached as high as 200 in number. Thomas S. Blair, the father of George D. Blair, organized the Blair Iron & Steel Co., located on Second avenue, Pittsburgh, 1873. He was a partner in Schoenberger-Blair & Co., and had joint manufacturing operations and processing with Andrew Carnegie for making steel tops on iron rails. This venture was not successful owing to the Bessemer process which developed at about the same time to make all steel rails. The officials of the company today are Geo. D. Blair, Jr., president and treasurer; J. C. Blair, vice president; E. N. Fulkerson, secretary; Thomas S. Nolan, superintendent.

If any of the readers of this column are interested in helping the Old Timers' Association carry on the work, a small donation by check sent to Fred Paul Butz, treasurer, at the Butz store on Mercer street, will be appreciated. Our expenses are modest, but the bank account is at low ebb.

WPA IS HELD RESPONSIBLE FOR SPREADING FEVER

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Aug. 10—The WPA was held partly responsible by an expert today for the fact hay fever sufferers appear to be in for a more difficult time than usual this year.

The reasoning was that of Oren C. Durham, chief botanist for the Abbott laboratories, who presented his case this way: the more public works undertaken, the more the ground is torn up the more weeds are encouraged to grow; the more weeds grow the more pollen they dispense, and the more pollen weeds dispense the more the hay fever victims sneeze.

Plan To Build More Airplanes

Contracts Let For $100,000,000 Worth Of Fighting Planes For U. S. Defense

LARGEST ORDER IN PEACETIME HISTORY

By ERIC FRIEDHEIM
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—In a spectacular preparedness move to keep the United States apace with the international armaments race, the war department today awarded contracts for more than $100,000,000 worth of airplanes—the largest single aircraft purchase in peacetime history.

Serve Notice

While Dictator nations were placing emphasis on air might, this country, through the aircraft orders, served notice that its air expansion plans to bring this nation's first line of defense up to 5,500 fighting planes by July 1, 1941, was now in high gear.

The awards, made on a tentative basis, included $64,113,000 for various types of aircraft and $21,865,000 for aircraft engines. Other equipment for which separate contracts will be let will bring the orders well in excess of $100,000,000.

The war department did not make public how many airplanes it was purchasing but the contracts awarded to various airplane companies included:

Four engined bombers: Consolidated Aircraft Corp., San Diego, Cal., $8,485,000; Boeing Aircraft Co., Seattle, Wash., $8,090,000, and $5,400,000 additional to these two firms for planes to be ordered later.

Congress previously had authorized the airplane purchases but the action of the war department in placing such huge orders in a single move was breath-taking and spectacular. Added emphasis was also given it by the fact that it was the second national defense move in as many days. It followed by less than 24 hours announcement by the army and navy of creation of a new war resources board to coordinate the resources of industry in the event of war.

Inspection Of Home Shows It In Good Shape

State Bureau Of Community Work Head Gives Report On Recent Examination

HENRY HOME IS GIVEN PRAISE

Report of a recent inspection of the Margaret Henry Home as made by Robert E. Lee of the Bureau of Community Work, of the Pennsylvania Department of Welfare, is contained in a letter to President Marcus Feuchtwanger of the board of directors of the home.

It shows the home in splendid condition and contains suggestions from Rosemary Reinhold, director of the bureau.

The letter follows:

Mr. Marcus Feuchtwanger,
President, Board of Directors,
Margaret L. Henry Home for Children,
New Castle, Pa.

My Dear Mr. Feuchtwanger:

Recently our representative, Mr. Robert E. Lee, visited the Margaret L. Henry Home for Children and his report shows that many improvements have been made in the home. Your matron and assistant matron seem to be doing an outstanding job for the unfortunate children in your community.

We shall watch with interest the development of the recreational program carried on by the Pro Indus club and the Junior Business and Professional Women's club of New Castle.

We appreciate the quality of medical and dental work furnished. It is hoped that in addition you will begin the health program which has been used to great advantage in other institutions and includes annual and semi-annual re-examinations with a complete set of physics records on all the children. In this way, a complete check on the children's physical developments is maintained and the assurance of sound health in the future greatly increased. Just how much of this program you have now established is not indicated, but the plan is submitted to you as desirable.

We are pleased with the thoroughness in your investigations of applications but wish to emphasize the fact that just as important is the re-investigation of family circumstances and planning for the future of children who have been in the home over a period of years. It is much better for the child if some plan for other than institutional care can be made. Have you ever considered the value of a person trained in Foster Home placement as a part of your staff? This type of person would also be of great help in the matter of discharges especially if the children remain in one place until 16 or 18 years of age, when it is harder for children to adjust themselves to normal community life.

We are cognizant of the expense under which you have been to meet fire protection standards as set down by the fire inspector, but would like to again stress the importance of regular fire drills. You are aware, I am sure, of the seriousness of fire hazards and the need for constant protection.

We appreciate your cooperation and are anxious to be of service to you.

Very truly yours,
ROSEMARY REINHOLD,
Director, Bureau of Community Work.

Rev. Marmion Lowe In Uplifting Series

Rev. Marmion L. Lowe's stirring Bible expositions on the Book of Ruth are attracting large crowds nightly to the Calvary Gospel Tabernacle, where Mr. Lowe of Bible School Park, N. Y., is the guest speaker for the sixth week of the fourth annual summer Bible conference.

In the audience Tuesday evening were many visitors from Sharon, Youngstown, Canfield and other communities. Special vocal numbers were sung by Kenneth Kerr of Temple avenue, Mrs. Robert Stark and Miss Ruth Borislough of Sharon. Rev. Lowe will give an inspiring and practical exposition of the third chapter of the Book of Ruth this evening. The service will also feature spirited congregational singing and special vocal music.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS ACIDS

Help 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes Flush Out Poisonous Waste

If you have an excess of acid waste in your blood, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may be over-worked. These tiny filters and tubes are working day and night to help Nature rid your system of poisonous waste.

When functional kidney disorder permits poisonous matter to remain in the blood, you won't feel well. This may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. If you have trouble with frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning, there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Kidneys may need help the same as bowels, so ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Convict Concludes Sit-Down Strike

Leaves Perch 128 Feet In Air And Surrenders To Prison Guards In Ontario

(International News Service)

KINGSTON, Ont., Aug. 10—A convict's sit-down strike ended mysteriously Wednesday when a French-Canadian, serving a twenty year term, slipped down from atop a 128-foot smokestack, where he had perched for 12 hours, and surrendered to prison guards.

Prison authorities refused to give the man's name. They said he is all right physically but had no additional information to give out.

It is understood the sit-downer did not like Kingston prison, one of the strictest in the dominion, and wanted to be returned to St. Vincent De Paul penitentiary, near Montreal.

Refused that request, he took advantage of the fact he was assigned late yesterday to work near the prison powerhouse, and suddenly mounted the smokestack.

When he was discovered an alrm was sounded. Searchlights played on him last night and hundreds of sectators peered at the strange sight of the convict who occasionally shouted defiantly to the guards below. Now and then he drank from a bottle which apparently contained water.

When a guard placed a ladder against the smockstack the prisoner made a motion as if to jump and the guard withdrew.

However, when dawn broke this morning the unidentified convict was absent from his perch. Prison officials refused information on how—or why—he came down.

Senators Angered At F. D. R.'s Remarks

By ROBERT A. McGILL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, August 10.—Replying to President Roosevelt's attack on congress for failure to enact his chief legislative recommendations, senate Democrats today served notice they will continue their fight to reduce federal spending and keep this nation out of foreign entanglements.

The senators, obviously angered by the president's statements at a press conference in Hyde Park, strongly denied congress had gambled boldly on the future by denying him a $4,000,000,000 lending bill and repeal of the neutrality act's arms embargo.

On the other hand, the senators asserted they acted in the best interests of the nation, and implied a distaste for the president's reference to a coalition with Republicans to defeat the legislation.

Brings Reply

The president's statements that failure to pass the lending and neutrality bills would shove business over a precipice and endanger this nation's security, brought an immediate reply from some of the conservative Democrats remaining in Washington.

They included Senators McCarran of Nevada, King of Utah, and Adams of Colorado, all members of the congressional economy bloc which has frequently broken with the president over huge government expenditures claimed to be excessive and unnecessary.

While McCarran and King took issue with the president's statement that congress gambled with the future of the nation, Adams denied that coalitions were chiefly responsible for defeat of the president's program, and said that "individual members merely voted their own convictions."

McCarran declared that the refusal of congress to pass the lending bill "afforded the greatest opportunity that private initiative and private industry has had in years," as he predicted a business boom.

Defeat of the bill, he added, "has given encouragement to the people of the country that bear the burden of taxation, by giving assurance that congress proposes to curb wild and unwarranted expenditures."

No Gambling

"Congress was not gambling on the future," McCarran said, "when it announced that it really meant to have this country remain neutral by remaining aloof from foreign entanglements, and by refusing to show favoritism in a foreign conflict to the extent of making one belligerent a preferred creditor to another."

Calling for "more independence on the part of members of congress," King warned that the Democrats must cooperate to reduce spending, or suffer the consequences in the next election. At the same time, he denied that coalitions with Republicans were responsible for the president's reversals.

No Coalition

"I know of no coalition," he said, "perhaps it was only of men who voted their own views. The best interests of the country would be better served if there were more independence on the part of members of congress."

Adams challenged the president to "look over" the roll call votes on important legislation in denying the existence of coalitions.

"For example," he said, "quite a different group was opposed to his neutrality program from that which was against his lending bill."

Police Hunt Illinois Guardsman For Girl's Slaying

Shooting Occurs In Guard Armory

Frank Japsynski, 47, Sought In Brutal Slaying Of His 23-Year-Old Sweetheart

WITNESSES SAW MAN RUNNING

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—Police hunted 47-year-old Frank Japcynski, an Illinois National Guardsmen, today in connection with the fatal shooting of his sweetheart, Elsie Doolewerdt, 23.

Miss Doolewerdt was shot three times last night as she struggled with a man in a doorway of the 124th Field Artillery armory on Chicago's South Side, and police said they were informed Japcynski was seen running from the scene.

The girl's parents told police their daughter had been friendly with the guardsman, attached to the regiment's medical corps, for several years.

A few moments before the shooting, police were told by Private Charles Held, armory watchman, Japcynski arrived at the armory clad in civilian clothes. Held quoted Japcynski as saying:

"My girl will be along in a few minutes. Let her in."

Miss Doolewerdt arrived shortly after, and Held admitted her when she asked for Japcynski.

The shooting occurred about 15 minutes later. Held said he heard a woman scream, and three shots. He ran from his post about 200 yards to the foot of a ramp leading to a gallery above the arena and found the girl lying wounded. She died soon after being taken to a hospital.

AROUND CITY HALL

Less than 100 persons in New Castle suffered from a contagious illness during the first seven months of this year according to city health department records. Usually at this time typhoid appears in various localities. Because of the danger of typhoid, Dr. W. L. Steen, health officer, today warned vacationists to not drink from unapproved water holes.

Fifteen thousand dollars in delinquent taxes was collected during July by attaches of the city solicitor's office, third floor, city hall. The total collected for the first seven months was announced as $38,659.91.

City assessors have yet to make the triennial assessment in the Seventh and Eighth wards. The assessors are A. C. Shoaf and John Cartwright. Assessors have not yet indicated whether the trend is up or down.

SEVENTH WARD NEWS

Plan Celebration In Seventh Ward

Italian-American Day To Be Marked By Groups Here On Tuesday, August 15

Plans are now under way for a gala celebration on Tuesday, August 15, in the Seventh Ward. That day will be known as annual Italian-American Day.

Feature of the celebration will be a band concert by the Christopher Columbus society band. This evening will take place at the band stand on South Liberty street. Victor Gasper will direct the band for this concert.

Throughout the entire day events will be arranged to provide a gala time for those who take part in the celebration. At the close of events late at night, there will be a gigantic display of fireworks at the South Liberty street playgrounds.

Band Concert At Ward Park Tonight

WPA Orchestra To Present Public Program At Bandstand Here

Recently scheduled but postponed band concert will be played tonight at 8 o'clock, at the bandstand in the Liberty street park, corner of Darlington avenue and North Liberty street.

The concert will be given by the members of the local WPA orchestra under the leadership of Ben Shulansky and Harry Hammond.

This concert, as have others in the series this summer, is under the sponsorship of the Seventh Ward Civic club, and has been arranged by members of the music committee from that organization.

NEWS BRIEFS IN WARD DISTRICT

Workmen from the Pennsylvania Power company were busy on the side streets in the ward Wednesday painting the overhead street lights with a bright coat of green paint.

Along North Liberty street a corps of workmen were engaged Wednesday afternoon removing several truckloads of dirt from the edges of the roadway. The dirt is washed out on the road after each heavy rain.

Quite attractive is the double bed of petunias planted in the front yard of a home on West Cherry street, just above Lafayette street intersection. The flowers are arranged in long beds and are used for bordering.

"Walk With Signal" are the large white letters that have been painted at the various street intersections during the past few days by city workmen. They have also freshened the white marks designating the crosswalks.

It should be the duty of each resident of the ward to make an effort to keep the streets clean. In front of the Mahoningtown post office is a large waste paper container that will hold quite a quantity of refuse.

Crops In State Progressing Fine Due To Rainfall

Crops Over Approximately Two-Thirds Of State Are Doing Well; Corn Is Earing

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10—Crops over approximately two-thirds of the state are making "good progress" as a result of heavy rains. But moisture is needed badly in the remaining districts, the U. S. Department of Agriculture reported today in a weekly review of crop and weather conditions in Pennsylvania.

"One-third of our correspondents reported the rainfall as light and qualified the statement by describing the various needs of the crops and the effect of the drought condition" the summary said:

"The remainder reported moderate to heavy rains, and in some instances it appears that one heavy shower followed another through a given region, supplying more moisture than needed, while regions on either side of the path continued dry.

Corn Earing Well

"Corn is earing well in most regions. Oats harvest is practically finished. Pastures and meadows have improved, but grasslands generally need more moisture than other crops, and it may be said in general that they are in need of drenching rains. Early potatoes are being dug, and in many instances the results are not so good as expected. The late crop is generally improving.

"Truck crops in the favored rain belts are developing in fine shape, and later truck promises to be good. Early peaches average rather small, but the later varieties promise a litter better. The quality of apples is generally good, excepting in the driest regions. Buckwheat is generally making a good growth and has not seemed to feel the effects of the drought so much.

Tobacco is making better growth and generally promises improved quality. Soy beans and other forage crops are generally fair to good.

F.D.R. Orders Cuts In Expenditures

Letters Comes "Coincidentally" With Threats Of Democratic Leaders

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—In a surprise move, President Roosevelt yesterday ordered heads of all government departments to institute wholesale economies in government operations.

His move came as federal expenditures reached record-breaking peacetime totals, and followed by a few days adjournment of the first session of the 76th congress, which had made appropriations exceeding budget estimates by more than $300,000,000.

Administration officials said the president's letter was a matter of routine. They pointed out that the president sends a similar letter to all departments every year to try to keep a brake on government expenditures.

Letter To Heads

In a letter to all government chiefs, Mr. Roosevelt instructed them to slash expenses wherever possible during the 1939-1940 fiscal year, and then, in their coming budget estimates for the 1940-1941 fiscal year, to propose plans for material reductions in government costs.

It was believed that while economies may be effected in the current fiscal year, the greatest reductions will come in the 1940-1941 period.

Mr. Roosevelt's letter was disclosed at the treasury department. Uniquely, it was revealed at a time when some conservative Democrats were threatening to make economy an issue in the next congress, which convenes January 3, 1940.

The president stated that money will be saved through operation of his government reorganization plans. However, he expressed the view that other administrative improvements and economies also could be effected.

DEAD ARMY FLIER NATIVE OF SCRANTON

(International News Service)

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 10—Private Anthony R. Gerrity, 29 year old U. A. Army airman who was killed Wednesday with a fellow flier in a mid-air collison at Round Lake N. Y., was serving his third enrollment, relatives said here.

He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gerrity of Scranton and a brother of Thomas Gerrity. Gerrity enlisted in the Army at the age of 21. He was a graduate of Central high school in this city.

MAPS FOR ALL WHO CALL TO SEE HUGHES

HARRISBURG, August 10.—Highway Secretary I. Lamont Hughes has a novel way of sending callers to his office away with a smile. He presents each departing visitor with a copy of the department's new road map.

The busy executive of the state's largest department employes this method as a means of "giving them something" when they call.

Many of Secretary Hughes' callers come to see him about road improvements and because of the department's limited funds few delegations can be promised that the desired projects will be undertaken. However, the secretary desires to send his visitors away with a smile so he gives them the new road map as something to show for their call.

Girl Scout Camp Director Is Here To Complete Plans

Miss Audrielle Lynch Confers With Mrs. Hanger, Camp Chairman

Miss Audrielle "Lindy" Lynch, of Athens, Pa., has arrived here to checkup on the details for the annual permanent camp of the Girl Scouts of New Castle, Inc. She is the guest of Mrs. W. H. Hangar, of East Wallace avenue, chairman of the camp committee.

Miss Lynch, who has served as camp director here in past years, is more than pleased with the splendid arrangements made for this year's camp, and stated that she feels that the camp this year will be the finest ever held.

Girls who are registered for camp are making last minute plans for attending the camp, which will open on Sunday, August 13. Payment of camp fees can be made at the Girl Scout office in the Greer building, where the office will be open each morning during the remainder of the week for this purpose and to receive belated registrations.

Mrs. Hangar stated today that a few registrations can be taken care of in the various units, but that arrangements should be made at once in order to make sure that there will be accommodations for those yet desiring to attend.

BURN BRITISH GOODS

SHANGHAI.—Bonfires of British goods are becoming a regular feature of the anti-British campaign in the Japanese occupied areas in China. One of the main points made by the sponsors of the campaign, which enjoys the full sanction of the Japanese authorities, is that Great Britain is responsible for the present war between China and Japan.

Cut Flying Time To Buenos Aires On Air Schedule

Government Hopes To Get 3½ Day Schedule From Florida To South America

By ERIC FRIEDHEIM
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, August 10.—A three and one-half day air service between the United States and Buenos Aires was the goal today of the American government to maintain commercial aviation supremacy in Latin America.

Cooperating with Pan American Airways, the post office department and the Civil Aeronautics Authority hope to cut the flying time between Miami and Argentina from six days to about 84 hours.

Only Days Now

Under present operations, Pan American Airways clipper planes fly only in daylight hours through the West Indies and down the long stretches of the Brazilian east coast.

Plans now under way envision day and night flying between Florida and the South American continent. In addition, Pan American would cross the interior of Brazil with new four-motored land planes as a special express service.

To facilitate night flying, the CAA expects to undertake installation of radio beacons, landing lights and other airways aids along the Miami-West Indies route which includes Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Federal aviation officials agree that American air service in Central and South America must be expanded to match the growing competition of foreign airlines.

Others Operating

German, French and Dutch air carriers already are operating in Latin America and English and Italian lines are expected to invade this territory in 1940.

Officials recognize that an expanded American air service is one of the vital steps in current efforts of the United States to bolster trade relations with her southern neighbors.

For several years, Pan American Airways has been conducting extensive surveys in northeastern Brazil with a view to establishing an overland route between Para, at the mouth of the Amazon, and Rio De Janeiro.

At present it is a two-day flying journey between these two cities since the clipper ships are forced to follow the long coast-line. The overland route would cut the time in half. This would be a supplementary service since PAA has no intention of abandoning service to the coastal cities.

RED CROSS WILL GIVE AID AT FAIR

Harry Culliford, chairman of first aid and life saving of the Lawrence County Chapter, American Red Cross, asks that all persons who have standard first aid certificates and are willing and able to devote a day's first aid duty at the fair to call or otherwise notify headquarters at their earliest convenience so that a suitable program of personnel may be drawn up.

CERTIFICATES FOR LIFE SAVERS READY

Charles Brest, chairman of life saving and water safety of the Lawrence County Chapter of the American Red Cross, has just received the certificates for the classes conducted by Miss Evelyn M. Sleightholm from July 24 through August 4. Mr. Brest wishes all students who have taken the course to call at the Red Cross office for their certificate, Monday, August 14.

Ray Cahill, dean of the St. Louis Browns scouting staff, will personally take charge of the trial camp at Idora park, Youngstown, O., which opens Monday morning, August 14, at 9 o'clock, according to W. L. Osley, general manager of the Youngstown Browns. The camp will last through Saturday, August 19. Osley emphasized that it was not necessary for players to write in advance for applications, and that there was no charge for taking part in the workouts. Cahill, whose scouting ability ranks him with the best in the game today, is credited with "bringing up" Jack Kramer, the young right-hander who has already won seven games this year—his first in the majors. Assisting Cahill will be Bill Urbanski, Youngstown manager, and a former major league star at Boston.

Rambling Around World Of Sports

Diamond dust—On their way to the 1939 league coronets, the New York Yankees and Cincinnati Reds are simply following an old John McGraw formula. "Slaughter the weak ones and break even with the good ones and you can't miss," McGraw used to say. To date, the Yanks have defeated the Brownies 14 times out of 15 attempts while the Reds have walloped the Phillies 13 out of 14 . . . Diamond gossip: Baseball moguls believe St. Louis is headed for night baseball next season . . . Also that the Cubs, Indians and Tigers will have new pilots. Lefty O'Doul, always an ace with Chicago fans, is a likely candidate for "Gabby" Hartnett's post. O'Doul is managing San Francisco . . . It's impossible to keep down this guy DiMaggio. During the Tiger series at Yankee Stadium, "Di" raced 450-feet and speared a drive off the bat of Hank Greenberg. The one handed catch was "tagged" as the most sensational ever seen in the Manhattan orchard, which is saying something when you consider the number of stars who have dug their cleats in the same ground. . . .

Sport shorts from here and there —Benny Bass, a former great of the ring, is on the comeback trail. Lack of dough is the reason . . . . That Canadian open has been strictly an American affair for 25 years. Since 1914, United States golfers have won that important link event without a break . . . Billy Conn and Lou Nova are billed for an exhibition within the near future. A few of the lads around Pittsburgh figure Billy may forget his lines . . . Boxing ranks as the most telegenic sport. Track, baseball, fencing, swimming and bicycle racing have all been televised. None showed up as well as the Nova-Baer fight which was broadcast to tele-equipped homes in the New York metropolitan area . . . Champion Joe Louis is slated for a second trip to the coast, this time to appear in a movie short on boxing . . . Max Schmeling ranks as one of the most physically perfect boxers in the game. In the past nine years, Max's weight has not varied more than two pounds. . . .

Local sport bits—Ellwood City's annual tennis tourney is slated to start as soon as the courts in Ewing Park undergo repairs. With the New Castle racquet event scheduled for next week, why not a play-off between the Ellwood City and New Castle champs? Said match would score a hit with tennis fans . . . . Before the close of the current season, the City Baseball League champs may face the City Softball League crown holders in a softball-baseball attraction. The game would attract several thousand fans . . . Class B grid mentors are getting set for the coming grid season. Frank Nocera, Shenango Township pilot, looks for one of the most torrid races in many years . . . .

Reds Defeat Chicago Cubs In Double Bill

Increase League Lead Over Cubs And Cards; Yanks Trim Senators; Sox Win Two

PIRATES FOLD UP IN ST. LOUIS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—"The king is dead! Long live the king!" today became the dirge of the Chicago Cubs, National league champions of 1938, after yesterday's doubleheader when the leading Cincinnati Reds all but eliminated them from the possibility of repeating.

The Reds whipped the sinking champions, 7 to 5 and 11 to 3, dropping them 12½ games behind the pace.

The Reds may find the St. Louis Cardinals tougher to crack than the Cubs. The Cards, with Johnny Mike, Don Gutteridge and Joe Medwick walloping homers, captured their 10th straight by beating the Pittsburgh Pirates, 5 to 3.

Sox Win Two

Despite a fence-rattling 13 to 8 success that ended Washington's winning streak at eight games, the Yankees saw the Boston Red Sox, victors 5 to 3 and 6 to 5 over the Philadelphia Athletics, chip New York's American league edge down to 6½ games.

Joe DiMaggio's 14th homer and a homer by Frankie Crosetti were among the 15 Yankee hits. Charley Ruffing registered his 16th victory. Jimmy Foxx rapped his 30th homer and Manager Joe Cronin his 14th against the Athletics.

Indians Trim Browns

Ben Chapman's ninth-inning double scored two runs and gave Cleveland a 6 to 5 triumph over the St. Louis Browns. Cleveland's new second base combination of Mack and Boudreau made three double plays.

In the National league, the New York Giants won a pair from the Boston Bees, 5 to 4 and 6 to 5, taking the nightcap in the 11th when Relief Hurler Fred Frankhouse heaved a wild pitch to allow Demaree to score the decisive run. Carl Hubbell, hurling the last 3 2-3 innings without a score, hung up his fourth straight victory.

With Schoolboy Rowe giving seven hits, the Detroit Tigers downed the Chicago White Sox, 10 to 3.

We have our bad spots in Pennsylvania but as a whole . . . it's the state to live in. It's a state that will progress further in the next decade than anyother state in this section.

Did you get the grass cut yesterday? Now that it's over, how do you feel . . . some folks are lucky and their jobs are very short . . . but then we find some who won't even cut a little patch of grass. We made a statement the other day concerning this topic . . . and we mentioned the fact that home owners should cut the grass if the tennant fails . . . some pressure should be made on the tennant don't you think?

A little work, a little play
To keep us going—and so, Good-day.
A little warmth, a little light
Of Love's bestowing—and so, Good-night.
A little fun to match the sorrow

A little trust that when we die
We reap our sowing—and so, Good-bye.

Camp Judges Have Hard Job To Face

Every Encampment Is Sure It Is The Best But There Must Be One Leader

ELLWOOD CITY, August 10.—With every department believing their own encampment is the last word in comfort and convenience, the judges to select the prize winner are going to have a mighty big headache.

One of the largest and most complete is Arnold and a number of its features are outstanding. They have just purchased $6,000 worth of new camp equipment and they have been aided greatly by their auxiliary and yesterday were presented with a large check from the women. Among the auxiliary members in camp yesterday were Mrs. Maude Tangey, Mrs. Mary Zamperini, Mrs. Harriet Rusnock and Mrs. Irene Hamilton, who was celebrating her birthday.

Pete Hustak is camp captain and when the boys become unruly he keeps them in the showers and if that doesn't help they are sent home. The shower treatment is usually effective. Clair Burlbaugh has the distinction of being the most handsome man in camp. Nelson McNutt, a pressman of the New Kensington Dispatch, is spending his vacation with them and having a "swell time."

Guests For Dinner

Earl Leichen, newly-elected first vice president of the association and a railroad employee by occupation, has a most pleasing personality as does their advertising manager, William DeMao, and last evening they arranged a special dinner for a number of guests, including John Hunger, justice of the peace; Arpad Steiner, Leonard Vent, Thomas Haser, Charles Fennell, Arnold Councilmen, a number of their auxiliary members, and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert S. Cowan, Ellwood City.

The four long tables were beautifully appointed and each centered with a lovely arrangement of gladioli. A delectable steak and mushroom dinner, elegant as a dowager's tiara, was served along with many other delicacies.

Edward Bowe, a glass factory worker, is their chef each year and Bill Neneth is his assistant and for the occasion he specially prepared 100 T-bone steaks and four chip baskets of mushrooms. Their kitchen is a marvel in cleanliness and completeness and today they expect 600 visitors for meals. In anticipation, they have prepared 100 chickens and huge amounts of other food. They are entertaining the high school band also.

Andy Nemeth is president of their department. As one leaves the orderly, neat appearing camp, they are finally impressed with a high-powered revolving beacon, an outstanding feature of the entire tent city, engineered by Paul Focht.

Arnold is out for all the prizes and with their equipment and appearance can scarcely be overlooked and were the judges treated to one of their "dream" dinners, they would probably stop there and consider their work finished.

Rev. C. J. Burton Going On Vacation

ELLWOOD CITY, August 10.—The Rev. Charles J. Burton, pastor of St. Luke's Episcopal church, and Mrs. Burton will leave early Monday morning for a three weeks' vacation visiting relatives and friends in Walkertown and Dunnvile, Ont., and Buffalo and Niagara Falls, New York.

Glassport Wins Water Contest

Mummers Parade And Fireworks Display Big Features Of Friday Evening

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 10 — Glassport won the water battle over Connellsville in an exciting contest last night at the P. and L. E. parking ground. Another battle will be staged tonight at 7 o'clock at the same place and on Friday evening, the contest to determine the winner of the year will be held.

Last evening, for entertainment a delegates ball was held at the Elks club and was largely attended. Dancing was enjoyed from 9 until 1 o'clock with the music being provided by a local orchestra. At the same time, a street dance for the public was held at Third street and Pittsburgh Circle.

Tomorrow morning will feature a bicycle race at 10 a. m. for boys and girls between the ages of 12 and 16 at Jefferson street, Ewing Park. At 2 o'clock a hose reel race will be staged on Orchard avenue After the water battle, there will be a WPA concert at Ewing Park at 8 o'clock. Climaxing the eventful week will be a mummers parade at 9 o'clock, which promises to reach a peak in amusing costumes and antics. Bands of a number of the companies plan to participate.

A gala fireworks display at 11:15 p. m., at Fulmer Field will sound the close of the week's activities.

Merchants Oppose Parking Meters

Pass Resolution To Accept Donations For Erection Of Roof For Curb Market

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 10.—The merchants division unanimously passed a resolution at its monthly meeting Tuesday night to accept donations from every business establishment in the community for the erection of a shelter roof over the farmers curb market. A special committee of the Farmers Curb Market association will meet with Earl Yahn, Ed Kellar and Al Neininger, the special merchants committee appointed by President Bob Shearer in the chamber rooms today to formulate plans to construct the roof.

The merchants division is requesting every merchant to keep his car off of Lawrence avenue during business hours so as to give the local shoppers more opportunity for parking.

Some 60 merchants who attended the meeting went on record by petition as definitely opposed to parking meters.

James Aughenbach, Wayne Shiever, Ed Kellar, Ralph Herge and Howard Williams were appointed to work with Secretary Denny Schill in planning fall sales campaigns that will make Ellwood City shopping attractive to local residents.

Mr. Shaw will put on a demonstration and lecture on Lawrence avenue.

The merchants heralded the bright outlook for all local industry this coming fall and will again give over their window displays to industrial displays the week of September 11.

Water Safety Club Organized

Senior Life Savers Of Ellwood City To Promote Safety In Water

The interest in the life saving and water safety course as given by the Lawrence County Chapter of the American Red Cross is very noticeable in the Ellwood City classes conducted by the volunteer instructor of the chapter, John Wilson. Upon completion of the senior life saving course, the group taking this work have organized a club to promote water safety in and around Ellwood City and to uphold the traditions of the American Red Cross.

The following are officers:

Mildred Rhea, president; Charles Follette, vice president; Dorothy Dambach, secretary and treasurer.

The club meets once every three weeks and the program is participating in water sports and the study of some part of the senior life saving course. This club has in the fire station in Ellwood City a list for the city firemen to contact in case of any emergency in and about the city.

Charles Brest, chairman of life saving and water safety of the Lawrence County Chapter, feels that this is a splendid outgrowth of the courses given by the chapter throughout the summer months to all people in the chapter jurisdiction interested in promoting water safety. He is hopeful that other such groups may be formed and that soon Lawrence county may have volunteer protection in and about all swimming spots of the county.

Market Suffers Another Sinking Spell Shortly After Opening Today

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service Financial Writer

NEW YORK, August 10.—The stock market had another sinking spell today and by mid-day showed losses of one to more than three points.

Issues to lose from two to more than three points included Chrysler, Westinghouse, DuPont, American Can, Allied Chemical, Case Threshing and Eastman Kodak.

Chrysler was a late opener and the first sale in U. S. Steel did not appear on the tape until 21 minutes after the market opened.

The oils were under heavy pressure. Texas Corp. hit a new low with a decline of more than a point. Consolidated Oil duplicated its low.

The steels went off easily, with both U. S. Steel and Bethlehem losing nearly two points each. Consolidated Edison, off more than a point, led the utilities down, while the rails suffered substantial losses.

Aviations showed better support than most other sections, anticipating the huge army plane orders to be awarded later in the day.

Firemen-Firemen-Everywhere And Ellwood City Likes Them

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 10—Comely Mrs. Hannah Sutton, named president of the Women's Auxiliary of the Firemen's association, is happily married and the mother of two children, Clarence, Jr., and an infant daughter, Janet Diane. She has been a homemaker for 20 years and "loves to do housework".

In his welcome address to the firemen, Judge W. Walter Braham, New Castle, recommended that the visiting firemen pay a visit to the beautiful Slippery Rock creek gorge during their stay in this city.

An invitation to hold the 1942 convention in Tarentum as a part of the celebration of the 100th anniversary of that community was presented at yesterday's meeting and was enthusiastically applauded.

An amusing disruption of the business session was made by an old-time fireman, Henry Weighagan of North Braddock, when he charged down the aisle roading "We want to know when our dues are due".

Sergeants-at-arms for the convention were: W. R. Harvey, Belle Vernon; Charles Lauffer, Manor; George Deitrick, Monaca; Gerald Dillinger, Swissvale; Jesse Humes, Tarentum, and Jesse Stewart, Turtle Creek.

A popular conventionite is Mark Roberts of Carrick, 77 years old and 35 years a fireman, and has an outstanding record of never missing a convention during his membership. His granddaughter, Miss Ruth Willock, won the Lions' convention beauty contest in Pittsburgh and will leave soon for Atlantic City to participate in the Miss America contest.

The only one of the three organizers of the Allegheny county department now living, Barney Klein of St. Clair boro, Pittsburgh, is a familiar convention figure whose opinions are highly regarded.

Anthony Ferraro, chief of the Sharpsburg department, is a squire and the sealing weights and measures agent in his city. This is the first year his department has had a camp and they have made an excellent beginning, judging from their equipment.

W. E. DeBolt of Connellsville, chief camp boss, has never missed a convention since 1915, 24 years, and would "rather go to camp than any place else". He has 12 children and with his wife always brings them to the convention. This year they are accompanied by four of their family, the others having been unable to come. He is one of the association's most valued members. The Connellsville department has their own 35-piece band.

L. L. Henry, Mt. Oliver, past president of the Allegheny county association, is a good friend of E. H. Schmidt, New Castle.

Glendale's chief of police, Frank Scott, is also camp boss and is much disappointed that his community was not chosen for the next convention.

Boss of the Rockwood, Somerset county, camp is Ralph Enos, who is employed on the construction of the "dream highway". They have adopted a mascot, Rita, a tiny Scotch collie pup, that wandered into their camp. Being big hearted they have also adopted J. L. McAllister of Swissvale, 35 years a fireman. Charlie Eagle, an interior decorator, is their champion bread eater. "Bobo" Bittner is Rockwood's Tarzan. Herb Phillips spends two-thirds of his time in New Castle. They think Ellwood people are "swell".

Half of the Stowe township, Number 2, like Ellwood City and half do not, Amico Caputo, brother of the newly elected vice president, is camp boss and they are going to enter the mummer's parade, to cop "some prizes." Their camp likes chop suey best.

Creighton fire department has been camping for 25 years and one of their old-timers, John Gretz, would like to "come back next year." Edward Kichta is camp boss and he says they will have a clown band in the mummers' parade. Chili con-carne is the number 1 menu here.

Thomas Wright, of Rosco, a mill worker, is cook of the Irwin camp and each morning he makes pancakes for 22 members of the Irwin department. An engineer on the Pennsylvania R. R., E. Davis, is camp boss and he says "this is the most congenial town we've ever been in." The Irwin leaders are all railroaders. James Gilchrist, Ernest Bertolina and W. Cochran. "We just like to camp, we don't want any prizes," they said. Their department has a 40 piece band, which is their pride and joy.

Everson department, Fayette Co. is pleased that next year's convention is going to Monessen. Lewis Smith is camp boss.

"The girls are friendly here" say youthful Paul Curran and Alfred Baird, of West Homestead unit.

Last year at Uniontown, Port Vue won the prize for the best appearing camp and they are making determined effort for this year's prize. Steve Bubonic, a former army cook, is their chef and loyally they declare he is the best cook in camp, and Captain Lewis Horvath says his stew is "what every man dreams about." Andrew Mayher is fire chief and John Bosway, a trustee and they both like Ellwood City. Being next door is Station KUKU, they take plenty of good natured ribbing.

Each of the camps expect a very large number of visitors from their home communities today and they have made ample provisions to take care of them. A great many of the visitors arrived last evening, bringing the parade equipment with them

Having been moderately quiet during their stay here, the firemen (aided by a lot of home talent) really took possession of the town last evening, halting in the street intersections to sing and play building fires under the stop lights and staging dozens of other amusing pranks. Hundreds of spectators lined the streets untill a late hour watching their performances.

William Ward, Percy Henstock, and Joseph Aeillo, camp bosses and Carl Kerlin, secretary of the North Braddock, who have camped with Arnold for years and have a 14 year record, are "satisfied," and declare "The Ellwood firemen are grand."
